ABSTRACT

Statistical data concerning funds budgeted by 14 federal agencies for grants and contracts in science and engineering to institutions of higher education in fiscal year 1976 are compiled in this appendix of a report issued by the National Science Foundation. These funds provide an estimated 95 percent of all funds for scientific and engineering research and development at higher education institutions. It is noted that these statistics refer to amounts budgeted (obligations) and not actual expenditures. Funding categories excluded from the statistics are: loans, agency support of federal employee training and development activities, and all forms of indirect support such as funds allocated to state agencies. Six categories of allocations are included: (1) research and development; (2) research and development facilities; (3) facilities and equipment for instruction in sciences and engineering; (4) fellowships, traineeships, and training grants; (5) general support for science and engineering; and (6) other science and engineering activities. The data are tabulated by geographic distribution, agency, type of activity, amount received, field of science, and type of control. An institution listing by state is provided as well as data on federal obligations to various research and development centers. (SF)

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

Washington, D.C.

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT:

I have the honor to transmit to you the statistical portion of the report Federal Support to Universities, Colleges, and Selected Nonprofit Institutions, Fiscal Year 1975, as required by the National Science Foundation Act as amended through April 1973.

This year, as in 1974, we are submitting the appendix tables separately in order to expedite the dissemination of the data. The analytical portion of the report will be transmitted later in the year.

Respectfully,

R. C. Atkinson

Richard C. Atkinson
Director
National Science Foundation

The Honorable
The President of the United States
Identical letters have been sent to:
The President of the Senate
The Speaker of the House of Representatives

GENERAL NOTES

The data presented in this report were obtained in NSF's Survey of Federal Support to Universities, Colleges, and Selected Nonprofit Institutions, Fiscal Year 1976 and Transition Quarter. The reporting system is a modification of one designed by the Committee on Academic Science and Engineering of the Federal Council on Science and Technology. An analytical report on the survey findings will be published early in 1978.

These figures portray total obligations to institutions of higher education from 14 Federal agencies which together provided an estimated 95 percent of all Federal funding to universities and colleges and more than 90 percent of all funds for scientific and engineering (S/E) research and development at such institutions. It should be noted that agencies not surveyed, such as the Department of Justice, the Arts and Humanities Foundation, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission, while accounting for a small proportion of the aggregate, may account for significant percentages of the total receipts of some individual institutions. The nonsurveyed agencies provided only $8 million for academic research and development.[1]

Obligations reported for universities and colleges do not include amounts obligated to federally funded research and development centers (FFRDC's) administered by academic institutions. Amounts obligated to these organizations are reported separately in tables B-36, B-37, and B-38.

Statistics presented in these tables may not add to totals or subtotals because of rounding; similarly, percents may not add to 100.

Requests for additional information about survey results and availability of data tapes may be addressed to J. G. Huckenpahler, Division of Science Resources Studies, National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C. 20550 (202-634-4673).

Definitions

"Obligations" are amounts budgeted for grants and contracts during a specified period (either a fiscal year, July 1 through June 30, or the transition quarter, July 1 through September 30, 1976, or the total 15-month period July 1, 1975 through September 30, 1976), regardless of when the funds were actually spent by the recipient institution. Thus, "obligations" differ from "expenditures" in that the latter term refers to funds actually spent during the period under consideration. The following categories of funding are excluded: Loans, agency support of Federal employee training and development activities, and all forms of indirect support such as funds allocated to State agencies, even if the final destination of such funds is known to be an institution of higher education.

Academic science includes all obligations for research, development, R&D plant, education (both graduate and undergraduate), and dissemination of information in the S/E fields. Academic science obligations are distributed among the following six categories:

(1) Research and development includes all research activities, basic and applied, as well as all development activities, which are supported at universities and colleges. Research, in the context of science and engineering, is defined as scientific inquiry. It includes basic investigations—those oriented toward deeper and more meaningful understanding and knowledge per se in a field of study or a problem area, and applied studies—those aimed at new or more complete knowledge in the light of potential practical application. Development is the systematic use of the knowledge and understanding gained from research, directed toward the production of useful materials, devices, systems, or methods, including design and development of prototypes and processes. Excluded are routine product testing, quality control, experimental production, mapping and surveys, collection of general-purpose statistics, and activities concerned primarily with the dissemination of scientific information.

(2) R&D plant includes all projects whose principal purpose is to provide support for construction, acquisition, renovation, modification, repair, or rental of facilities, land, works, or equipment for use in scientific or engineering research and development. A facility is interpreted broadly to include any physical resource important to the conduct of research or development.

(3) Facilities and equipment for instruction in the sciences and engineering includes all programs whose principal purpose is to provide support for construction, acquisition, renovation, modification, repair, or rental of facilities, land, works, or equipment for use in instruction in science or engineering.

[1] Based on data presented in National Science Foundation, Detailed Statistical Tables. Federal Funds for Research, Development, and Other Scientific Activities, Fiscal Years 1976, 1977, and 1978, Volume XXVI (NSF 77-317) (Washington, D.C. 20550, 1977.)

(4) Fellowships, traineeships, and training grants include programs which are directed primarily toward the development and maintenance of scientific and technical manpower, including stipends and cost-of-education allowances, reported in terms of the institution chosen by the recipient. Obligations supporting research and educational institutes, seminars, and conferences such as teacher training activities provided through teacher institutes, short courses, research participation, and inservice seminars; activities aimed at the development of educational techniques and materials for use in S/E training; and programs which provide special opportunities for increasing the scientific knowledge and experience of precollege and undergraduate students, are excluded.

(5) General support for science and engineering includes support for nonspecific or generalized purposes related to S/E research and education. Such projects are generally oriented toward academic departments, institutes, or institutions as a whole. Types of support under this category range from support provided without any specification other than that the funds be used for scientific activities to programs which provide funds for activities within a specified field of science or engineering without specifying purpose, or for a certain type of activity without specifying the field. Examples of these types of programs include NIH's Biomedical Sciences Support Grants and General Research Support Grants.

(6) Other science and engineering activities include all academic science activities that cannot meaningfully be assigned to one of the preceding five categories, such as technical conferences, short courses for the training of science teachers, programs supporting scientific training of undergraduates or precollege students, etc.

Nonscience activities are all programs not included in the six science categories defined above, but which represent direct funding (excluding loans) from a Federal agency to an academic institution for activities or purposes not specifically related to the sciences and engineering. Included are all obligations for research, education, and facilities in the arts and humanities, as well as broad grants for general-purpose institutional support within which any amount supporting science activities is indistinguishable.

Relationship to Federal Funds

Data presented herein will not correspond exactly to those reported in the annual Federal Funds for Research, Development, and Other Scientific Activities. The following conceptual differences should be noted:

(1) Data published in the Federal Funds series cover only obligations for research, development, and R&D plant, whereas in the Federal Support survey, agencies are asked to report all obligations to institutions of higher education.

(2) Interagency transfers of funds are reported in the Federal Support survey series by the agency which actually makes the award to an institution. In the Federal Funds survey, obligations are to be reported by the originating agency. Thus, funds transferred from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Commerce and then obligated to a university would be reported by the former agency in the Federal Funds survey but by the latter in the Federal Support survey.

(3) Certain categories of funding are classified differently in the two studies. The General Research Grants Program of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), for example, is reported under "general support for science" in the Federal Support survey but under "research and development" in the Federal Funds survey. Likewise, the National Science Foundation (NSF) has reported that portion of institutional development funds used to support R&D activities as "general support for science" in the Federal Support survey, but as "research and development" in the Federal Funds survey.

(4) "Selected nonprofit institutions" in this report are primarily the larger independent research institutes (those which received at least $300,000 in Federal funds for research, development, and R&D plant). Voluntary nonprofit hospitals, professional and technical societies, academies of science, private philanthropic foundations, science exhibitors, trade and agricultural associations, and other types of nonprofit organizations are generally excluded from this survey. Exceptions have been made in the case of a few institutions such as the National Academy of Sciences, the magnitude of whose research programs imparts to them something of the character of research institutes. By contrast, data for "other nonprofit organizations" in the Federal Funds reports include obligations to all such organizations in the country.
